Attack Haston Family Home Near Spencer, Tenn.—Mother of Secretary of State Reported Killed

DETAILS OF SHOOTING ONLY MEAGERLY KNOWN

By Associated Press
NASHVILLE, Mar. 8.—Sam Haston, brother of Ernest Haston, Secretary of State, his mother, Mrs. Sam Haston, St., Mrs. B. D. Sappero, a sister, Tullis Troglan, a boy living on the Haston place and a fifth person, a man, were shot at the Haston family home three miles from Spencer, Tenn., early today. Lewis Douglas, a paroled negro convict, is charged with the shooting. He escaped and a posse is seeking him.

Details of the shooting are not known. Meager reports say the family were ministering to Mrs. Sam Haston, who is seriously ill and who died this morning when the shooting took place. It is reported Mrs. Sappero was mortally wounded and that Sam Haston's leg was broken by the negro's bullets. Secretary Haston left here today for Spencer with blood hounds. The negro was serving a twenty-one-year term for arson.

NEW TELLS HOW HE'LL RUN JOB

Will Make No Promise Of Postoffice
Patronage—Wants Judged
By Work Only

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Performances, not promises, must form the basis for the public's judgment of the administration of the Postoffice Department under its new chief, Harry S. New.

"I'm not making a promise" New said as he squared away for his new job as boss of 339,000 postal employees and head of the biggest business organization in the world.

"I have no plans for any campaigns, reorganizations or stunts.

"I am going into a job, of which I have only a theoretical knowledge, with only one idea—to administer the affairs of the Postoffice Department in a business-like way to the best of my ability.

"If I make a success of it, the public will find it out.

"If I make a failure of it, the public will soon make me find it out.

"So far as I know, I am taking over the department at a time when it is functioning in good shape."

"How about the recommendation of Postmaster General Work, made in retiring, that postmasters and other appointees be taken from civil service and political patronage and handled directly by the department on a business basis?" He was asked.

"Not a word—not a word!" New answered apparently sensing a lead on the subject of patronage generally.

In political circles it has been currently stated that New's appointment was a direct move by the president to put into office a man he would use to strengthen the administration's political organization for the battle of 1924. But on all approaches to that subject the new postmaster general had but one answer.

"Not a word!"

By Associated Press
CATLETTSBURG, Mar. 8.—Judge Halbert announced that the remainder of the eight so-called Republican defendants in the Claypole election murder cases will be tried September 10, while the trials of the four so-called Democrat defendants in the same case comes up May 24. Attorneys for Will Barnett, found guilty last night of manslaughter and sentenced two years, filed a motion today for a new trial which was fixed for hearing June 2.

STATISTICS SHOW 65,000 BIRTHS IN STATE LAST YEAR

LOUISVILLE, March 7.—Kentucky storks put in considerable overtime last year, having dropped 65,000 babies in homes in the state, according to reports published today by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health. While this shows an increase in actual numbers over past years, the birth rate is about the same per thousand inhabitants the increase in population accounting for the large number in 1922 the report states.

Kentucky's total population last year, however, made no unusual advances owing to the fact that the death rate of 12 per thousand was ten per cent higher than that of the preceding year.

"Vital statistics are of great value to the people of Kentucky because they point out the greatest dangers to the State and show where we should place our efforts to combat causes of death," J. F. Blackerby, State Registrar, said in comment on the report. "Last year, for instance, the largest number of deaths resulted from cancer, influenza and pneumonia. Without the aid of vital statistics we should not know this, but since we have learned where to place the blame for the immeasurable loss to the state that death entails, we can make especial efforts to fight our worst enemies."

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—A quiet little man with a gray beard and a slough hat got out of an automobile at Union station here today, walked slowly through the crowded waiting room to board a train for Danville, Ill. The incident marked the final passing from official life of Joseph Gurney Cannon who came to Washington fifty years ago to begin his legislative career. His departure was almost as unobtrusive as his arrival during the days when the Civil War was fresh in the memories of people as the World War is today.

"LARGEST" DEPOSIT EVER MADE HERE IS OF GERMAN MARKS

The largest deposit of money ever made at a local bank was when J. W. Carter placed in his safety vault $2,000 marks a few days ago. The currency was Russian, German and Austrian and was obtained from the foreign countries through the agency of a bank here. It is thought that this wealth would be sufficient to buy a ticket to a movie show in Germany. With the daily decrease in the value of the paper mark, the German people are refusing to accept it at any price and are demanding articles with some intrinsic value instead. It is due to this condition that the money is being scattered broadcast throughout the world. A few other local citizens own large sums of the money. Some seem to think that it may increase in value as the German government becomes more stabilized and thus become a profitable investment.

FIG TRACK MEET PLANNED IN LOUISVILLE

By Associated Press
LOUISVILLE, March 8.—Work has been inaugurated on plans which if successfully carried through would make Louisville the scene of the greatest outdoor track meet and athletic carnival ever held in Kentucky.

The occasion is to signalize the formal opening of Douglas Park, presented to Jefferson Post, American Legion, by the Kentucky Jockey Club, as a legion playground.

The date tentatively has been set for Saturday, May 5, one week prior to the opening of the spring running meet at Churchill Downs.

Sanction of the A. A. U. could be obtained and bi-state championships of that organization for the district of Kentucky and Indiana decided. Every large college and university in the two states is expected to be represented.

Kentucky, it is pointed out, would send representatives from the University of Kentucky, Centre College, Transylvania College, University of Louisville, Georgetown College, Berea College, Eastern and Western State Normals, Kentucky Wesleyan, St. Mary's College, St. Joseph's College, Kentucky Military Institute and others.

From Indiana would come delegations from Purdue, Indiana University, Wabash College, Franklin College, Butler, Earlham, DePauw, Notre Dame and Hanover according to plans.

At a meeting here of the state department of the American Legion the athletic subcommittee of that organization was authorized to complete arrangements for the meeting. Officials of the Louisville Amateur Athletic League pledged their support for the success of the meeting.

NEW M. H. S. FENCE TO SERVE USEFUL PURPOSE

A fence the front of the high school lawn is now being completed. It is not so high as that which adorns (?) the lot on the canal side and it will doubtless be even more attractive. Standing about three feet in height, it will be made of highgrade wire. The posts and panels will be painted. The new fence will serve a useful purpose, namely, that of protecting the flowers which will be planted along its inner side during the spring. The public has manifested no small degree of interest in the fences and carpenters doing the work are put through a grueling cross examination as to the excuse for the fence every few minutes.

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 8.—Anita Stewart, motion picture actress, and her husband, Rudolph Cameron, director, have "agreed to disagree for a little while and live apart," Miss Stewart said, according to the story the Los Angeles Times published today. "I am not contemplating a divorce," she said "and I am sure my husband isn't."

GIANT SMOKE STACK K. U. SUB-STATION IS BEING RAZED TODAY

Work of pulling down the giant brick smoke stack of the old sub-station of the Kentucky Utilities company at the corner of Nineteenth street and Bloomsbury avenue is taking place today. The stack which is eighty-three feet in height and twelve feet square at the base has been standing for nearly a score of years.

Permit was obtained from the chief of police yesterday to rope off the street for the safety of pedestrians while the work is in progress. Bricks will be taken from one side of the bottom of the stack and block and tackle will be used to pull it down. The razing of the stack and the old building has created a great deal of interest in the section as is evident from the number of persons standing around watching the work.

About half of the old brick building has already been taken down. Part of it will be left standing and the Utilities company will remodel it and continue to use it as a substation.

The new brick building which will be erected for the $150,000 ice plant will be 137 feet in length, sixty-four feet in width and twenty-three feet high. It will be constructed on the site of the old raze building. Work on it will begin as soon as the bricks and debris of the old building are cleared away.

NEW BUS LINE RUNS FROM PINEVILLE TO KNOXVILLE

Operation of a bus line between Pineville and Knoxville reaching Middlesboro, Cumberland Gap, New Tazewell, Clinch River and Maynardville will be begun by the Interstate Bus Line Inc., within a few weeks, according to H. Lee Monroe who, in conjunction with D. Z. Gibson, is launching the enterprise.

Two buses, each having a seating capacity of twenty persons will each make a round trip daily. About four and one half hours, it is thought, will be required to make the trip. The buses will be of the sedan type, upholstered in genuine leather and heated and lighted by electricity. Mr. Monroe says the fare will be lower than that charged by the railway companies.

Mr. Gibson and Mr. Monroe selected the vehicles from the International Motors company factory when they were in Springfield, Ohio, a few days ago. Delivery of the cars is expected in three weeks and the line will begin operation as soon as they arrive.

MIDDLESBORO NOT REPRESENTED IN NEW "WHO'S WHO"

Middlesboro is not represented in the "Who's Who in America," a 1923 copy of which has been received at the Carnegie library. Charles I. Dawson, attorney general of the state, whose home is listed as Pineville, is the only celebrity in its pages upon whom we have any claim. Barbourville leads the nearby towns in regard to nationally prominent men, it having five listed to its credit.

These are: James D. Black, lawyer; Caleb Powers, congressman; John M. Robison, congressman; Flem D. Sampson, judge, and Ethan Viall, editor. London has one man in the record, Don C. Edwards, congressman. The other towns such as Harlan, Lynch, etc., have no representation in the record. The name of Herman Hughes of Tazewell, United States supreme judge, appears in the book.

The last edition of the "Who's Who" contains 24,728 names, showing an increase of more than 1000 names during the past year.

CHOOSING BETWEEN HOME AND JAIL, PRISONER TAKES FORMER

There comes a time in the life of every man when he must meet an issue squarely and decide between two alternatives. Arrested for alleged desertion of his child-wife and obtaining money under false pretenses, a man in police court today had to choose whether he would remain in jail or make restitution of the money and support his wife. After a glance out of the window at the gloomy and unwholesome walls of the city bastille walls, he decided in favor of work and his wife.

It is said that his step-mother-in-law who works at a local factory, had bought a large bill of furniture for their mutual use, making a substantial cash first payment. The man, by putting up a hard-luck tale, succeeding in getting this money from the store and had the furniture returned. A warrant setting forth the two charges above mentioned was procured and he was arrested yesterday and incarcerated in the city jail. Whether or not he will fulfill his promise is a matter of conjecture for it was a case of compulsion with him.

INCREASED INTEREST IN READING SHOWN AT LIBRARY

An increased interest in reading in Middlesboro is indicated by records of the Carnegie library. During February the shortest month of the year, 1078 books were issued. This is an increase of fifty books over the preceding month. Forty-four new cards were issued during the month, indicating that this number of persons have begun to patronize the institution that have not heretofore done so.

The reading room during the evenings is also being used by an increasing number of patrons. A pleasing variety of magazines is kept at all times on the tables and it is mainly these that are ready by those patronizing the reading room.

CENSUS FIGURES FOR KENTUCKY

Show 26.2 Per Cent People Live in Cities—Towns Over 2000
Listed

By Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, March 8.—Census figures disclose that approximately sixteen per cent of the 2,416,630 inhabitants in the State of Kentucky live in the seven cities of Ashland, Louisville, Covington, Henderson, Lexington, Owensboro and Paducah, whose total population is 392,594.

The total residing in all Kentucky towns and cities is 623,543, leaving 1,793,087 in the rural communities or 26.2 per cent in the towns and cities in 1920, which represents a growth from 24.3 per cent in 1910.

Searchers for the curious quirks in the figures found that in 1920 the Kentucky males numbered 1,227,494 and the females 1,189,136, or 102.2 males for every 100 females in the state. The proportion has grown slightly during the decade, for in 1900 the proportion was 103 and in 1920, 103.1.

What is now New York, history says, was purchased from the Indians for a handful of beads while Louisville, like Topsy "just grew." In 1870 it numbered 200 persons. In the next thirty years its size had swollen to 4,012. Twenty years later it had risen to a city of 21,210 and in another decade was one of the largest cities in the south with sixty-eight odd thousand people. It is now quite a place of 234,591, exclusive of recently annexed suburbs; a considerable human reservoir.

A THOUGHT

I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last—Rev. 22:13

Death borders upon our birth; and our cradle stands in our grave—Bishop Hall.

KEEP OUR STREETS CLEAN

The man at work yesterday cleaning the streets was a hopeful sign to many a Middleboroan. We've talked among ourselves of our city's dirt streets, and excused them to strangers and rallied about them to our city officials until, as average citizens of this city, we are willing to go to any reasonable lengths this summer to have them kept clean.

We are proud of Middleboro and we swell pleasantly when we hear called, "the Magic City," "the Queen City of the Mountains," and the most thriving town in Kentucky. We point almost boastfully to the building accomplishments of the last year—the new theatre, the new hotel, and five new school buildings. But aren't our streets like old runner shoes, counteracting entirely the well-groomed effect these other fine adornments give our city?

Shabby shoes are always a sign of careless or shiftless traits in a person so character analysts tell us. All the taste and riches that can be lavished on dress and hat are lost when the costume is finished with unkempt shoes. Is that the impression we are willing to have made by Middleboro?

The cost of a permanent street cleaner for the city would not be very great, if the prisoners' labor can not be depended upon. If the city can not afford even this cost, it could be made up by popular subscription, or by assessments of property owners along the streets. At any rate, some system should be devised whereby our streets may be kept in a clean and sanitary condition this summer and our city may present an appearance to visitors which we do not have to excuse and explain.

TEACHING ETHICS
IN PUBLIC SCHOOLSDr. Charles Eliot, in March Current History Magazine

The present exclusion of training in ethics from all public schools is one of the most unfortunate results of the toleration in religion which was embodied in the Constitution of the United States and of the multiplicity of religious and Christian sects strongly represented in the American Commonwealth. A feasible mode of giving instruction in universal ethics in the free schools, has yet to be invented.

Several experiments on the subject are already being tried, but none of them seems promising, and particularly none of them is likely to take any effect on that large proportion of the American population which is unchurched. The problem is to select a body of material for ethical instruction which Roman Catholics, the various Protestant denominations and the Jews can agree upon for use in the schools, this material to include selections from the Scriptures, stories, fables, hymns and other poetry, drama and music. Self-appointed committees in various parts of the country are already at work on this problem; and there is no better field for philanthropic and patriotic endeavor.

THE OPEN FORUM

Food For Thought

What is behind the epidemic of juvenile vice?

Why are young people of today less respectful and courteous to their elders, less amenable to discipline than their parents were?

Why do the majority of young people today fail to grasp eagerly, the education furnished so liberally? Have they outgrown the present day system of education?

What efforts are being put forth
by fathers, mothers, teachers to restore a wholesome morale among the boys and girls of today?

To curb present-day evils among the adolescents a new system of control must be devised. Discipline by fear is obsolete. Some way must be devised to make boys and girls WANT to be good.

Parents and teachers should bend
every effort to prevent pictures being shown on the screen depicting kissing, cuddling, suggestive scenes.

We should begin today to call a halt. Parents are too indifferent to the fact that boys and girls will be together—some place; and if they are not properly chaperoned by older folks, undue familiarity is likely to exist. None of our children are immune.

Adventures of The Twins

The mixed-up automobile that flew with wings instead of rolling on wheels, spoke to the Twins. "I don't think I'll go any farther," it said stubbornly.

"Why?" asked Nancy. "You said
you would take us to Jack Straw's

"I know, but I might get wrecked," shivered the automobile. "I think I'll go home."

"Then how will we get there?" cried
Nancy in dismay.

"Magic Shoes and a basket of magic eggs ought to help you," said the auto snappishly.

"Why that's so!" declared Nancy, smiling again. "Come on, Nick, we'll have to keep on traveling by our-

"When Mix Up Land turns into will you?" said the automobile.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

THE SOUTHLAND
By Berton Braley

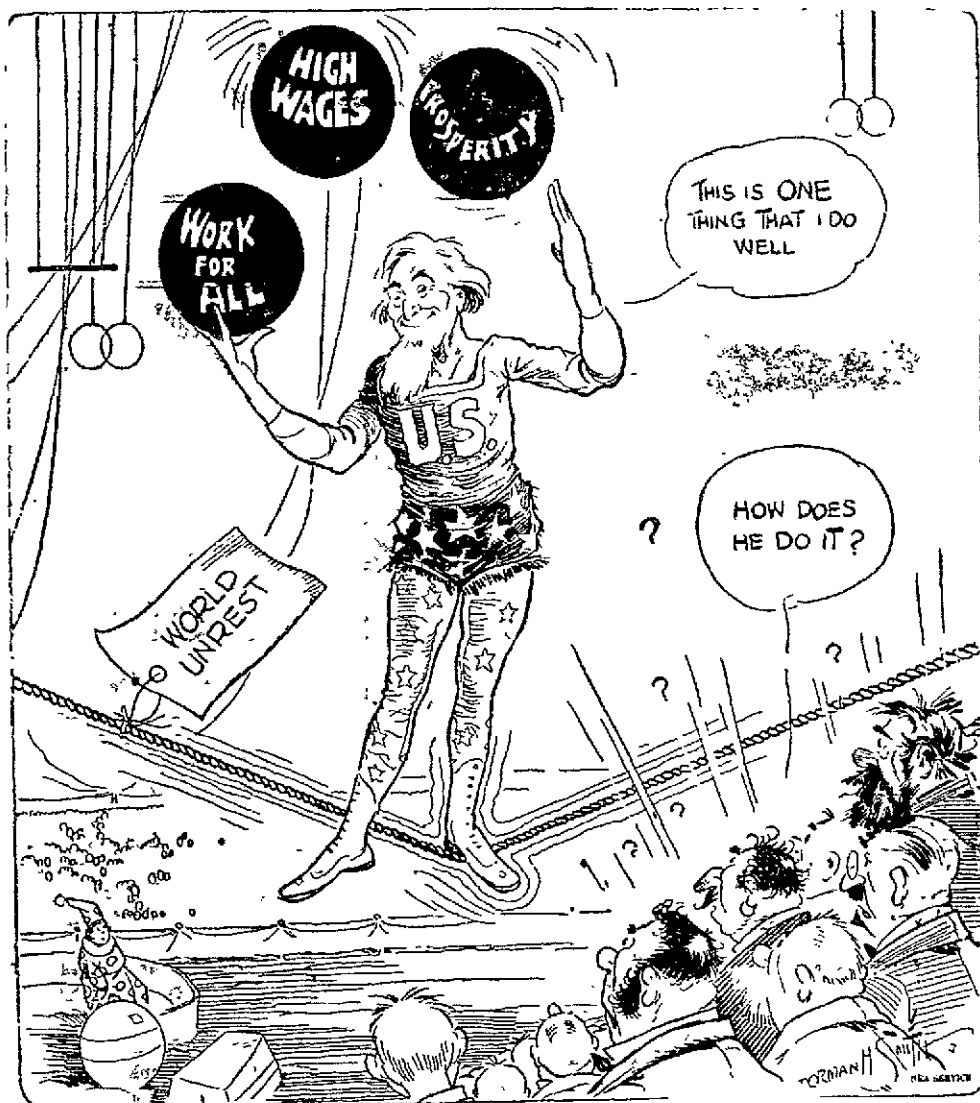

..... Anywhere in The South,
I like the South—a lot of it—though now and then some spot of it Does not exactly thrill me through and through;

And in this southern latitude I sure am
full of gratitude
For all the friendly things that people do.
They have a joyous way with them
that brightens up your stay with them,
And they're not out to rob you of your chink,
But one unkindly reference I make
with all due deference:
I wish that they'd make coffee fit to drink!

It's muggy as their rivers are! I wonder what folks live here—Who drink this southern coffee every day;
A spoon will scarcely sink in it, there must be lye and ink in it,
It's strong enough to pull a heavy dray.
By some infernal trickery they fill it
full of chickory
And then, as if that were not quite enough,
They stew it for an hour or two, thus giving it the power to Compete with T. N. T. as potent stuff.

Sometimes, by luck that's notable, you find the coffee potable,
A drink that anybody can imbibe;
But mostly it's incredible, a beverage
so dreadful
That nothing in the language could describe.
Oh, southerners, you've treated me
superbly, and you've greeted me
With courtesy wherever I have stayed;
I love you most adoringly, but still I cry imploringly,
"I wish you'd learn how coffee should be made!"

THE GREAT AND ONLY UNCLE SAM

THE
ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

Kate would have known, she thought,
had she seen the trunk bottom anywhere, that Dan's hands had arranged
it. And she felt as if she dared not touch it!

Somewhere there, she knew, must be a letter for her, the letter of which James Latham had told her. She must have it! Every fiber of her being was alive with an eagerness curiously tinged with fear.

What, it there, among those folded bits of white paper, should be round
the words which would utterly destroy her faith in mankind and break her heart! Her impulse was to put back the broken cover and let the little trunk continue with its secret.
Could she endure the remainder of her life if the proof of Alice's story should be out into her hands thus?
And what of Dorothy then? If she should finally be forced to acknowledge to herself that she was Dan's daughter, could she love the little girl and, now that she was homeless,
give her the home she needed?

Kate turned toward the window.
Through the gathering twilight she saw the outlines of her father's figure. In his arms he still carried the little girl. He was moving slowly toward the house. The child's body was relaxed, as if in sleep.

Kate watched her father stride
along the path, his lips swaying easily, so that the sleeping child should not be disturbed by the motions of his walking. She saw him bend, as he neared the house, and kiss the face which lay upturned near his shoulder.

The vision became indistinct. A mist gathered in Kate Ward's eyes.
She sat erect, Monk watching, while tears, the first in years, coursed slowly down her face. She knew in that moment that, come what might, she was still so much the woman that she should love the motherless child.

Blindly she reached into the trunk and lifted the packet of letters which her hand touched.

She turned it over and read on the envelope:

"To Katherine, my wife."

Dan had called her Katherine in his sweetest and more serious moods. She had loved the name. It seemed more intimate on his lips, more endearing than the shorter one.

She trembled as her fingers touched the rubber bands which held the letters together. Time had outworn its elasticity. It snapped apart.

Fellowship of Prayer

THURSDAY

Beloved of the Father

"This is my beloved son; hear ye him." Mark 9:7.

Read Mark 9:2-13.

"The reasons for thinking him divine are solid and colossal facts, which even a wayfaring man can see."

MEDITATION: The spirit of Christ is not a matter of creedal statement but of fact. His power to renew lives is of the very nature of God. Others may introduce us to him, but it is his power that strengthens us.

HYMN:

Lord of all being, throned afar,
Thy glory flames from sun and star:
Center and soul from every sphere.
Yet to each loving heart how near!

PRAYER: The day returns and brings us the petty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man! Help us to perform them with laughter and kind faces.
Let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day. Bring us to our resting beds weary and content, and undishonored. And grant us in the end
the gift of sleep. Amen.

In Kentucky
The moonlight falls the softest
In Kentucky;
The summer days come oftener
In Kentucky;
Friendship is the strongest,
Love's light glows the longest
Yet, wrong is always wrongest
In Kentucky.

Life's burdens bear the lightest
In Kentucky;
The home fires burn the brightest
In Kentucky;
While players are the keenest,
Cards come out the meanest,
The pocket empties cleanest
In Kentucky.

The sun shines ever brightest
In Kentucky;
The breezes whisper lightest
In Kentucky;
Plain girls are the fewest
Their little hearts are trueest,
Maiden's eyes the blindest
In Kentucky;

Orators are the grandest
In Kentucky;
Officials are the blandest
In Kentucky;
Boys are the fleetest,
Danger ever nighest
Taxes are the highest
In Kentucky

The blue grass waves the bluest
In Kentucky;
Yet, blue bloods are the fewest (?)
In Kentucky;
Moonshine is the clearest,
By no means the dearest,
And yet it acts the queerest
In Kentucky.

The dove notes are the saddest
In Kentucky;
The streams dance on the gladdest
In Kentucky;

Pistol hands the slickest,
The cylinder turns quickest

Thunder peals the loudest,
The landscape is the grandest,
And politics the damndest

NORMA TALMADGE'S Manners.

By Norma Talmadge

Every marriage engagement sets up a new social institution, a new home. And this is true whether those engaged plan to live in a cottage or a mansion. Therefore it behooves the engaged couple to build a solid social foundation. In this it is the duty of both their families to co-operate wholeheartedly.

- ENGAGEMENTS
- 1: Immediately after obtaining a young woman's consent to marry him, a young man should ask her parents' sanction, making it asked a straightforward statement of his financial standing.
 - 2: The next day after the young woman's parents approve the engagement the man's parents, or nearest relatives, should call on the parents of the bride-to-be.
 - 3: Announcement can be made at social affairs, by letters or through the newspapers, but should come first from the young woman's family.
 - 4: The young man should consult some of the best trained on the stage. She spoke in particular of Autou Lang who has just finished playing the Christ his third, and last time.

Mrs. Robertson described the theater which seats 4500 persons, and told of the stage which is uncovered and has only the natural background. The Play is divided into three parts of twenty-four tableaux. Each tableau is preceded by a prologue and a chorus.

The tableaux each represent some significant scene from the Bible.

The speaker described in detail the beautiful costumes of the actors and chorus singers, saying that all costumes and scenes are taken from old masterpieces. She said she was particularly impressed by the beauty of the speakers' tones and the manner in which they lived their parts.

In closing Mrs. Robertson told of the proposed discontinuance of the Passion Play because of the seeming commercialism. This commercialism, she explained is done by the Cook (tourists' agency, who get the money from the Play. The actors, she said, get $50 for their four months' work.

PINEVILLE, Mar. 8.—The case of Rice Bingham of Barboursville charged with the murder of John Stamper will probably be in the hands of the jury Thursday afternoon. The commonwealth completed its testimony yesterday morning and the defense will doubtless finish presenting its case this morning.

The case was interrupted at the completion of the state's evidence long enough for the introduction of Dr. George R. Stair, who is conducting revival services at the First Baptist church, and who gave a short sermon in the court room.

MAJOR HELBURN TALKS TO KIWANIS

Routine Work Takes Most of Time—
Speaker Urges Accomplishment
One Thing This Year

Forty-seven Kiwanians were out to the noon-day luncheon at the Hotel Cumberland today. President Arthur Tiebig presided throughout the meeting as the chairman, the Rev. Sam P. Martin was ill. P. M. Parsons drew the attendance prize. The silent boost were pencils given by Allen Lumber Co. Major E. S. Helburn was the speaker.

The president first read several letters to the club. One letter was from the Harlan Kiwanis Club, calling attention of Middlesboro Kiwanians to the new Pullman accommodations offered by the L. & N. for travelers from Middlesboro and Pineville to Harlan and Lynch. Another letter, from the Chattanooga Kiwanis Club, invited delegates to the international convention to be held in Atlanta in May, to start a day early and spend the day in Chattanooga. The letter outlined the railroad connections from Middlesboro there and from there to Atlanta described the many beauties to be seen while in Chattanooga and told of the entertainment the Chattanooga Club was preparing for the out-of-town delegates who would stop there.

The third letter was from the district governor asking that at least four delegates go from each club and stating that all reservations of persons who expect to go should be in by the last of March so that hotel reservations may be made together. The club, at the suggestion of a member, voted to have the Kiwanis Club luncheon on Wednesday next week instead of Thursday.

Major E. S. Helburn, the speaker of the day, took a few minutes to urge that the Kiwanis Club accomplish some one specific thing for Middlesboro this year, some thing to be proud of and "not scatter our talents and shoot at stars."

He began by saying that Middlesboro did pretty well last year and he cited the new hotel and the new school buildings that were erected. "The town has been pretty dead, though," he said, "for the past six or eight months. And when a town, like a person, stops, it goes back. We can't stand still. We, as Kiwanians and builders, should do something for Middlesboro to keep it alive and on the way to being the best town in the section, which it is eventually destined to be."

The speaker then went on to suggest two possible accomplishments. The first was something to make more employment. For this he suggested the bringing here of a brick plant or a factory. The second suggestion was a way to meet the housing shortage. He praised the building and loan association work in helping build homes, but proposed that the Kiwanians or individuals get together a company to promote building homes and turning them over to people who wanted them, on long time easy payments.

PINEVILLE KIWANIS SOCIAL MEETING

Routine Program Dispensed With—Recent Home Comers Tell of Vacation Trips

PINEVILLE, Mar. 8—Ed Samuels, president of the Pineville Kiwanis club, presided at the Tuesday luncheon held at the Pineville Hotel, in the absence of a temporary chairman. The meeting was merely a get-together and the program for better business in Pineville, which is being carried out this year by the Kiwanians, was dispensed with.

Talks were made by recent home comers, Reid Patterson, who has been in Florida for several weeks, and Judge William Ayres, who has been in Texas for sometime. Mr. Patterson complimented the club on its recent growth, and the number of new members which has been taken in during his absence.

J. H. Brient, the blind musician from Dayton, Ohio, gave several numbers both vocal and instrumental. A. R. Anderson announced that the speaker that had been selected for next week, Senator Robison, will be unable to come due to previous arrangements.

There were forty-six members present at the luncheon.

Drink Water If Kidneys Hurt

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back pains or Bladder bothers.

Too much meat may produce uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble. The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system. When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back, or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to help neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus often ending urinary and bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to help to keep the kidneys clean and active. Drink plenty of water at all times.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

By Charles P. Stewart

Europe looks very much like getting back to the conditions which led up to the World War.

Primarily the last great conflict was between Germany and England. It may not seem so after the fact, because so many other issues were dragged in. But every close student of the situation could see what was coming eight or ten years before it happened.

It was evident that Germany was determined to grow and that England was determined to prevent her from growing, because she could grow only at England's expense.

Nobody foresaw that America would be drawn in the struggle but plenty of people foresaw that France and Russia and Italy and the Balkan nations and, of course Austria-Hungary would.

True, a great many who saw perfectly well what the tendency was, didn't believe there actually would be a war. They thought civilization had progressed too far for such a thing to be possible. But they were aware that England's race to keep ahead and Germany's race to catch up were leading, logically, in that direction.

Their Interests Conflict

Well, it's the same today, except that now, instead of being England and Germany, it's England and France.

Their interests conflict. Nothing could be worse. A quarrel can be patched up, but a conflict of interests can't.

The friction between England and France isn't very serious yet, but if things go on as at present, it will get more so. Probably it will be ten or twenty years before the sparks begin to fly. But sooner or later they will. Of course this is assuming that France goes ahead with her policy of today and that it works.

Nothing could be clearer than that she aims to expand and nothing can be more certain that if she succeeds in doing it, she will have England to reckon with.

Armed Revolt in Germany?

No doubt it's true there's a good deal of restlessness there, but the French have too obvious a reason to exaggerate for their accounts to be taken without a liberal quantity of salt—they want an excuse for tightening their grip.

Most of the international political authorities are predicting some sort of a settlement of the Ruhr controversy before long, but it looks more every day as if the French meant to hang on for good. There may be so-called mediation, yes. France however, as the plot works itself out, doesn't appear, quite so much as she did at first, to have gone off at half-cock when she seized this German territory. If she had some well-laid plan in mind at the time, it isn't likely that any conference of outsiders will persuade her to give it up.

French Expansion Policy

For that matter, French and German "big business" show signs of getting closer together than they were.

There was quite a while that Germany, in a business way, was so much more friendly with the English than with the French as to upset the latter. Was the Ruhr enterprise intended, among other things, as a hint to the Germans that they'd got to tie up with France, whether they liked it or not? And are the Germans beginning to do it, like cold-blooded business men who don't let sentimental considerations weigh with them for long against hard facts?

Indications point that way. Also all accounts agree that France is likely to recognize the revolutionary government of Russia soon, with which by the way, England isn't as friendly as she was. French influence? At any rate, it's certain that France is doing everything she knows how to strengthen herself, politically and commercially, throughout continental Europe, as fast as she can.

It's equally certain that England doesn't like the French policy a bit. New Alignment Glimpsed

The queerest feature of the whole thing, just at the moment, is that there's an underlying sense of better relations between France and Germany, despite the former's invasion of the latter's soil, and in spite also of the supposedly threatened German rising against the French, than exists today between England and France.

Just after the war, there were a lot of folk who had an idea no Anglo-Saxon ever would like a German again. But people who recalled past camities, seemingly just as bitter, had been forgotten with the lapse of time, were heard occasionally to remark that, after all, you couldn't tell—it wouldn't surprise them to see the English and Germans fighting side by side a few years hence.

Nobody said that it wouldn't be surprising to see the Germans and French fighting side by side.

For all that the latter looks a good deal likelier than the former does—that French and Englishmen will be seen fighting side by side again in a long time to come.

It may seem like a queer time to predict a European continental combination, with France and Germany both in it against Great Britain. It's logical, it's indicated by the trend of events.

Aside from her own overseas dependencies, the friend to which England is working to bind herself to is the United States.
